FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

VERVAIN UNVEILS "ELYSIUM" COLLECTION IN COLLABORATION WITH DESIGNER BARRY DIXON

TULSA, OK (January 2025)— Vervain, renowned for its exceptional textiles and distinguished artistry, is proud to announce the launch of its latest collection, Elysium, created in collaboration with celebrated designer Barry Dixon. This captivating new collection embodies the essence of serene beauty and timeless elegance, drawing inspiration from nature's tranquil wonders.

Webster's Dictionary defines Elysium as "a place of ideal happiness," a concept rooted in ancient Greek mythology. It evokes a heaven-like realm for special and heroic individuals to experience eternal joy after death. For Vervain, Elysium takes this classical idea to heart, translating it into a breathtaking collection of fabrics, wallpapers, and trims that evoke peace, joy, and connection to the natural world.

The collection's inspiration is drawn directly from the picturesque landscape of Elway Hall, Dixon's home nestled in the heart of the Virginia Piedmont. The beauty of the surrounding environment — from the melody of songbirds and the winding bittersweet vines to the majestic elm and beech trees and the rolling pastures — serves as the foundation for this stunning new line. Each piece in the Elysium collection celebrates the tranquil haven of Fauquier County, translating nature's splendor into luxurious textiles and design elements.

The Elysium collection is available now and promises to inspire designers and decorators alike, offering a fresh and elegant approach to interior design. For more information about Vervain and to explore the collection, please visit <https://fabricut.com/vervain>
