O & Company Interiors Celebrates Women with Victoria Lane Collection During Women's History Month

Charlotte, NC — Feb 26, 2025 – O & Company Interiors proudly launched the Victoria Lane Collection, a custom hand-crafted upholstered furniture collection designed to elevate and create a deep connection to home during Black History Month. Founded by Okeatta Brown, O & Company Interiors was born from a personal quest for high-quality, aesthetically beautiful, soulful décor.

The Victoria Lane Collection honors Okeatta's mother and great-great-grandmother, celebrating the braid as a powerful symbol of strength, beauty, and cultural identity. Brown, a serial entrepreneur and business leader, formed O and Company Interiors because of the importance of entrepreneurship in her family and upbringing and because of the cultural aspect of the soulful décor.

"Entrepreneurship is essential to the strength and resiliency of the African American community," says Brown. "When others said, 'No to us' we said yes to ourselves and the broader community offering products and services to everyone. Women in general and Black women specifically are leading the entrepreneurial revolution, starting more businesses than any other demographic. It is important to honor our tradition of inclusion and excellence by creating a business that reflects our history and culture while offering a contemporary look and feel for today's consumers," adds Brown. An expert in inclusion, she has built a diverse core team made up of women. The Victoria Lane Collection pays homage to the women in her life who made this dream possible.

This collection incorporates the braid, an art form, with roots dating back to 3500 BCE seen in ancient African rock carvings and Egyptian hieroglyphs. The braid represents more than decoration; it embodies identity, status, and community. The intertwined fabric signifies resilience and humanity's ability to interweave stories and traditions into daily life. From its African origins to contemporary fashion, the braid fosters connections across cultures and eras. The Victoria Lane Collection encapsulates this universal bond, creating pieces that echo through time and space.

Brown designed this collection which features a unique blend of high-quality textiles and thoughtfully designed pieces that bring an approachable yet luxurious aesthetic to any space. It is a beautiful and unique expression of style and sophistication. Whether in a boutique hotel, in your personal home, or as the "special statement piece" that's perfect for your interior design project, this collection offers custom, hand-crafted upholstered pieces that elevate any space. "Each item in the Victoria Lane Collection is designed to resonate with the soul, nurture connection, comfort and style. It was cultivated with nuance and a touch of je ne sais quoi to create cherished spaces,” said Brown.
