Adriana Hoyos Debuts Luxury Furniture Designs at Spring Market 22 introductions include upholstered seating and modular cocktail tables

HIGH POINT, NC – Luxury furnishings brand Adriana Hoyos is set to debut 22 furniture products this spring in the company’s first permanent showroom at High Point Market, located at 117 North Hamilton Street in the Hamilton-Wrenn Design District.

“This season’s introductions are focused on the key product categories that align with current demand from our U.S. based dealers, design centers and interior design trade,” says Eduardo Perez Hoyos, Adriana Hoyos Vice President. “Our newest offering of design-driven styles includes upholstered seating, dining chairs, counter stools and modular accent tables.”

The Spring Market intros include new items identified in the brand’s Galápagos collection:

Galápagos Oceana dining chair: Featuring a sleek, curved design with armrests, crafted from high-quality materials. The backrest can be customized in fabric or leather. A piping detail enhances its refined look.

Galápagos Island cocktail table: Available in two heights, this accent table features a stylish nesting design inspired by the organic curves of the Galapagos islands. The tabletop may be specified in natural stone, Dekton or custom-finished wood.

Galápagos stool: The counter-height stool boasts a uniquely upholstered cover that may be customized with a contrasting fabric or leather. The seat additionally features a swivel function.

All items may be further specified based on a host of customization options. At April High Point Market, the brand will additionally launch 26 fabrics and two leathers, for in-line availability. The company additionally accepts C.O.M. and C.O.L. orders.

Following the trade show, the Adriana Hoyos showroom in High Point will be open by appointment only to interior designers and industry professionals.
