

AMERICAN LEATHER®

American Leather Unveils New Collections Celebrating the Expressive Allure of Textile

Dallas, TX, April 15, 2025—American Leather, a leader in custom luxury upholstery, proudly debuts its latest collections at the April High Point Market, unveiling a bold vision that centers on the luxurious impact of textile. This season, the company presents a fresh approach to comfort, customization, and creativity—showcasing how thoughtful fabric and leather choices can dramatically reshape a frame's personality and performance.

Set against a warm, desert-inspired palette that evokes the serene beauty of a subtly textured landscape, the showroom features a tactile interplay of matte and textured, organic and plush in a series of new introductions that reinforce American Leather's reputation for design-forward innovation and handcrafted excellence. The curated collection underscores the company's commitment to personalized luxury, offering consumers limitless options through COM/COL, customizable seat heights, cushion fills, leg heights, skirting choices, and motion preferences.

At the heart of American Leather's philosophy is its vertically integrated Dallas facility, where craftsmanship, technology, and design innovation converge. From concept to completion, every piece meets the brand's rigorous standards for precision, performance, and sustainability.

New for April Market 2025

Dorian: Configurable Comfort Meets Sculptural Form

Designed with European sophistication and American versatility in mind, Dorian offers a variety of comfort experiences with its innovative articulating back cushions. These allow the user to switch between two seating profiles—one for relaxed lounging with a taller silhouette and deeper seat, and another for upright support with enhanced lumbar comfort.

Dorian's elegant oval-shaped arms wrap seamlessly into a plush frame with softened edges throughout. Available as a chair, sofa, or sectional, it is shown in the showroom in Bison Desert leather and Brae Cinnamon fabric—an earthy pairing that perfectly complements the season's warm tones.

Lumen: Subtle Sophistication in Every Detail

Lumen is a refined silhouette that emphasizes nuanced detail without overwhelming the senses. With a versatile 18" seat height and two depth options—27" or 35"—Lumen adapts beautifully to individual comfort preferences. The adjustable headrest rolls gracefully into the back when lowered, while to-the-floor arms with stitched flange detailing add quiet elegance. Multiple base options in wood or metal allow for further customization.

Also Debuting This Market

Wallace Bed: Fully upholstered with a signature half-cigar rounded profile on the headboard, footboard, and side rails, Wallace brings a plush, cohesive look to both traditional and adjustable bases.

Althea: Featuring a statement-making sofa and chaise, Althea captivates with sculptural, asymmetrical arms and indulgent curves that embody modern elegance and singular style.

"Textile is more than a finishing touch—it's a force that transforms," said Lance Trachier, Creative Director at American Leather. "This season, we're leaning into the power of fabric and leather to redefine the experience of luxury living. Our new pieces reflect not just aesthetic beauty, but the freedom to create comfort in your own way.”

American Leather’s High Point showroom: Space 5000, fifth floor of Showplace. Open 8am until 6pm daily during the High Point Market.

About American Leather

American Leather believes exceptional furniture begins with thoughtful design, unmatched craftsmanship, and a commitment to innovation. Since 1990, the company has redefined what it means to create custom, made-to-order furniture, handcrafting each piece in their Dallas, Texas facility. Their timeless styles feature an array of leather and fabric sofas, accents chairs, motion furniture and their award-winning Comfort Sleeper® for both residential and commercial applications.

Visit their website, or follow on Instagram @americanleather.

#

Media Contact:

Dawn Brinson

A New Day Creative Communications & Marketing

dawn@anewdaymktg.com