Hudson Valley Lighting Group Unveils Spring Collection, Reinforcing Its Position as the Design Industry's Lighting Leader

Wappingers Falls, New York – April 25, 2025 — Hudson Valley Lighting Group, the worldwide leader in the design and engineering of decorative and architectural lighting, is set to debut an exciting new collection at the Spring 2025 High Point Market. With a focus on timeless craftsmanship and forward-thinking design, the brand will unveil over 250 new fixtures from its Hudson Valley Lighting and Corbett Lighting lines.

Hudson Valley Lighting will introduce Timeless Grandeur, a collection that celebrates rich materials, elegant forms, and subtle innovation. Standout features include striking entryway fixtures designed to make a statement, warm-tinted glass, dual-light fixtures, and organically-inspired silhouettes that blend flourishing forms and futuristic elements to transform light into a fresh interpretation of nature. Building on a best-selling, crowd-favorite category, Hudson Valley Lighting will also expand its collection of rechargeable lamps with six new designs.

Corbett Lighting redefines artistry in lighting with its latest collection, Eternal Opulence, where fluidly sculptural forms, luxurious materials and historical references merge in unexpected ways. This season's designs celebrate structured silhouettes and deco-inspired geometry, blending seamlessly to create lighting that makes a truly striking, designed presence. From bespoke-inspired sconces and close-to-ceiling stunners to stone-crafted fixtures and bronze glass finishes, every detail exudes luxury.

Hudson Valley Lighting will also introduce two new designer collections – the brands fourth with Mark D. Sikes, and Cortney Bishop's debut collection. Cortney's collection features 14 stunning families, each capturing her signature blend of bohemian charm and refined sophistication. Think natural silk shades, delicate perforated details, and striking scale — designed to bring both whimsy and elegance to any space. Mark returns with Forever Classics, a thoughtful evolution of his beloved designs including 12 fresh families, plus three updated finishes, Soft Crimson, Studio Green, and French Blue, on some of his most popular best-sellers – perfectly timeless with a fresh twist.

"Our latest collections are the result of bold creativity and deep collaboration with some of the most visionary designers working today," says David Littman, CEO of Hudson Valley Lighting Group. "This season's launches are an expression of our commitment to craftsmanship, innovation, and design leadership. With over 250 new pieces and inspiring new collaborations, we're continuing to shape the future of lighting for the design community."

The new collections will be on view from April 25 – 30 at the Hudson Valley Lighting Group showroom, located in the iconic Market Square Building at High Point Market.
