FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Outshine: Sauder Illuminates a Perfectly Aligned Presence at April High Point

In the year of The Great American Eclipse, Sauder spotlights all that one would expect from the industry leader – an unsurpassed array of selection, service, innovation, and value.

ARCHBOLD, Ohio — March 15, 2024— As anticipation swells for a total solar eclipse that will cross North America in early April, Sauder plans to focus its light this market on the attributes that make Sauder a leader in the furniture industry. Those include an ability to outshine and surpass expectations with outstanding selection, service, and value.

“Although the next total eclipse won’t occur until 2044, market attendees won’t have to wait another minute to see the on-trend, affordable designs Sauder offers,” said Mike Lambright, VP of Marketing. “This market perfectly aligns a ‘totality’ of developments in cross-functional living spaces, from work-from-home solutions to innovations for modern living.”

At this market, Sauder broadens its product selections by debuting a new rustic-inspired casual grouping, new functional sit/stand desks in multiple sizes, and fresh bedroom options within popular Sauder collections. Additionally, the company is expanding its storage furniture options to accommodate robotic disc vacuum units, an innovative concept introduced at last October’s market.

At High Point Market, Sauder is showcasing:

- Rosedale Ranch™ – A casual home office, storage, and bedroom furniture suit featuring modern function with rustic charm.
- Adjustable height desks – Functionality prevails with these desks made to accommodate any working environment with comfort and ease.
- Bedroom additions – Line extensions to existing Morgan Main® and International Lux® collections provide options for the bedroom.
- Robotic vacuum storage – BotStop™ by Sauder is dedicated to function for multi-purpose occasional and storage furniture, allowing pieces to stylishly conceal common robotic disc vacuums in any room of the home, without interfering with the automated function.
